It is a significant statistic for a nation that suffered only four defeats in home Tests between Feb 2013 to Oct 2024

Questions are being raised about India's dominance at home. Addressing these concerns, former Australian player and coach Justin Langer (https://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/topic/justin-langer) put the debate to rest.

"Anyone who suggests it's the end of (home domination) in this country, they're a more courageous person than me because I would never say that, there's too much talent in India," Langer told TOI.

batting surfaces to a large extent. The visiting spinners have found success in troubling India in the last four defeats, mostly in spin-ons. They were bundled out for less than 200 on five instances.

it always felt impossible to beat India in India. That was the Mount Everest moment of our career. So it's really interesting, isn't it, that we're seeing a bit of a change with visiting teams beating India in India? Perhaps it is because some of the other countries and their players are playing in the IPL too," Langer, the brand ambassador of NiviCap, said here on Monday.

With the next Test starting on Nov 22 in Guwahati, Langer expects India to fight back.

"Remember, some of the Indian players just came from Australia (white-ball series, which ended on Nov 8), where it's opposite. And a few days later, they're playing in really tough conditions in Kolkata. India have got some very good players in that team and they'll be disappointed and look to fight back in the next Test."

ROOT UNDER NO PRESSURE

With the Ashes, featuring Australia and England in Perth starting on Friday, Joe Root has become a talking point. The Englishman, who has 39 Test tons, is searching for his elusive three-digit mark in Australia.

But Langer believes Root is under no pressure. "Root has got more Test runs than anyone in the history of English cricket. He is a superstar. Yes, at the moment he hasn't scored a Test hundred (in Australia). Will he score it in the next five Tests?
Only time will tell. But, he's under zero pressure (to score the elusive ton)."
